This current rated capacity is 792 beds all utilized to house adult female's by contract with the New Mexico Corrections Department. In accordance with the contract the Corrections Corporation of Americas - New Mexico Women's Correctional Facility was to obtain American Correctional Association accreditation within 24 months of accepting the first inmate. Corrections Corporation of America - New Mexico Women's Correctional Facility was initially audited in March of 1991, and resulted in a finding of 100% compliance with all the standards for an Adult Correctional Institution. Corrections Corporation of America - New Mexico Women's Correctional Facility was the first correctional facility in New Mexico to achieve this accreditation. The New Mexico Women's Correctional Facility has maintained this accreditation every three years since the initial accreditation.

On June 15, 1989, Corrections Corporation of America - New Mexico Women's Correctional Facility opened its doors to 149 female inmates from the New Mexico Corrections Department's Western New Mexico Correctional Facility, also in Grants. The designed capacity was 204 beds. In 1994, the population had increased to over 250. To alleviate overcrowding, Corrections Corporation of America submitted a proposal and received approval to construct two additional minimum security housing units, a medium security unit, and a therapeutic unit for the treatment of drug and alcohol abuse offenders. Construction began in May 1995 and was completed in December 1995 bringing the capacity to 322 beds. In October of 1999 a second expansion began and was completed in April 2000. With this expansion, approximately 57,303 square feet was added to the existing 124,997 square feet bringing the total square footage to 182,300. This expansion added a new Corrections Industries building, a new medical, dental, pharmaceutical, and medical administration area; along with adding dormitory style housing units to increase the rated bed capacity to the 792 which exist today.

The original construction of the facility was completed in 1994, as a County jail. The facility sits on more than twenty-eight acres, while its structure contains in excess of 212,000 square feet of living and working floor space. In the following years, the institution was transformed from a juvenile facility to a state prison for Idaho inmates. In October, 2000, the necessary renovations were completed in preparation for the Federal Contract, and we received the formal notice to proceed on October 19, 2000, with the first group of inmates arriving the following day. The facility carries a staff compliment of 300 employees, to include security, non-security and subcontracted personnel. The New Mexico Women's Correctional Facility contains seven operational housing units.

The Central Control office controls the vehicular sally port gates, front entrance gates, perimeter lighting, fire alarm system, key lock boxes and hand-held radios. There is a telephone with outside-facility and long distance capability. A complete set of emergency keys is maintained in two separate locations within the institution to ensure access at all times.

The Corrections Corporation of America - New Mexico Women's Correctional Facility's stated mission is: "to provide for the public safety by operating a safe, secure, constitutionally sound, and accredited correctional facility for adult female offenders committed to the New Mexico Corrections Department". Their values are "having PRIDE in all we do".
